We are going to celebrate Thanksgiving this year with a series of sales, in which the value giving will be very great. We invite you to share it.

Thanksgiving is pre-eminently an acknowledgment of the divine blessings of harvest. From time immemorial man has set aside a period after the crops have been gathered in which to make ceremonial record of his gratefulness for the yield that is to be his support during the unfruitful days of winter.

We are all close enough to the soil to have some appreciation of its wonders. And this Thanksgiving shall be a time when we as a store shall make a fitting observance of our debt to field and orchard—commercially—the products of which to be a real profit to all who come to share them. This year we have an added cause for Thanksgiving.

Our New Store—and all that it means in expression and growth—and the increased ability to serve as we have always wanted to serve.

So Then This Ringing Message With a Tangible Meaning to You TODAY

A good year's business that has been built upon more than the mere love of gain. Its code has been one of honor and its ethics have harmonized with the upward trend of humanity.

There have been times when the head and hand fell short of the day's goal. But the public has shown in its loyalty, its approval, its confidence, as well as its steadily expanding patronage—an appreciation of our efforts. And with gratitude and encouragement we go forward, realizing that the dissemination of those stimulating influences which, even in the busy channels of trade, make for ennoblement and good will, found their basis in the right principle—the system of fair dealing inaugurated in this store many years ago.

A sweeping statement. We want you to test it. We make it advisedly, because we have here the merchandise—a collection which we believe is unequaled at the prices quoted.

THE BETTER WAY.

Arbitration as the preferential method for settling industrial disputes is given significant impetus by the handing down of the decision in the eastern railroad cases. The controversy between the railroads and employees of the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio was the first great test of the method as broadened by the Newland amendment. Under the terms of the latter provision, six arbitrators of the nature of the dispute, three from each side, were named. Of these, two represented the employees, two the railroads and two were neutrals, acting presumably as umpires. The hearing has been under way since September 11th and has, of course, been of the most exhaustive and painstaking description.

It was not to be expected that all parties would be satisfied with the board's decision. Compromise is essentially the distinguishing principle of arbitration and compromise means concession. Each party-dispute fell short of winning all their contentions.

The thing that will count most with the nation is the fact that an understanding has been reached without resort to the terribly expensive and dubious weapons of the strike and lockout. Had these devices been employed in the case under discussion the cost in lives, dollars and morale might have been staggering. Under the most peaceful of conditions, even the traffic of the entire country would have been temporarily paralyzed. For with the enormous growth of this country and the interlocking of material sectional interests the railroads of the east cannot be dissociated from the railroads of the south and the west. With the paralysis of transportation, would have come a paralysis of business, entailing suffering and loss difficult to put into figures. And this is not to reckon with the possibilities of violence and the engendering of hatreds, the penalties of which might have come down even a long era.

All these terrifying contingencies have been averted, and it is entirely probable the work has been done with much more justice and equity than if carriers or employees had appealed to the ancient and discredited methods. Incidentally, the great strike party to crises of this nature, the consuming public that supports the two other parties, has learned one lesson more as to its own rights. Each successful arbitration of this nature is a certain step toward compulsory arbitration, the people desiring that their business and property should be laid waste while the parties to a quarrel thresh out their differences in obstinacy or violence.

CONQUEST BY OSTRACISM.

Can the United States solve the Mexican problem by an international, but peaceful, blockade of Huerta? That appears to be the experiment toward which the Wilson administration is feeling its way.

Washington, it now appears, is to refuse to recognize any state of affairs in Mexico. The congress has it will attempt to seal it will regard as non-existent, as it should, since the election which brought its members into power was no more valid than the presidential election Huerta himself acknowledges as invalid. In other words, so far as the United States is concerned, Huerta and his crew are henceforth to be legally dead.

It is likely that Europe will fall in, negatively at least, with this program. France and Germany have already given indication of so doing. The recent speech of Asquith, the British premier, gives guarantee of a similar course and sounds like a veiled repudiation of the recent indications of Sir Lionel Corbett, England's bumptious ambassador. With all the European creditors of Mexico lined up with America, and supplies from every direction cut off, the present de facto government cannot enjoy very long life or activity. It will be literally starved out.

Of course, the program here outlined is merely on the face of negation. By Huerta is eliminated, as he will be by force or otherwise, some individual or individuals must take his place. No country can run itself, just as it is impossible to conceive of a locomotive engine in disrepair without an engineer, or a ship drifting about minus the man at the wheel. It may be that recognition of the belligerency of the constitutionalists, and lifting the ban on importation of arms, will turn the trick. At all events, the president has conclusively demonstrated two facts: (1) That he is bent on dislodging Huerta; (2) That he will resort to every expediency reconcilable with honor before entering upon the dangerous course of intervention.

Huerta's time will be short as his shirt.

The senate is fighting almost as hard over the currency as the average citizen does to get it.

Atlanta surrenders without a struggle to the army.

Good roads also make the mare go.

Hail to the March King!

And they say it's getting too hot in Mexico for even the movie men.

The house of representatives complains that Washington isn't equipped for a rest cure.

Diaz's advice to Huerta is to beat it while the going's good, and the profound view of experience behind it.

DEBT OF THE SOUTH TO HENRY W. GRADY

By J. A. WATROUS
(Lieutenant Colonel H. A. Retired, in the Chicago Record-Herald.)

Atlanta was an obscure point well-known to the world as a population of 100,000. It was a city of the future, a city of the future, a city of the future.

Georgia played a foremost part in the civil war. It was the only state that was strikingly important part in the rebuilding of the south.

One of the first, if not the first, southern papers unflinchingly accepted the situation after the war and made able, heroic and persistent efforts for the healing of the wounds.

It was not to be expected that all parties would be satisfied with the board's decision. Compromise is essentially the distinguishing principle of arbitration and compromise means concession.

Efficient Housekeeping

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Says Mother Goose.

A nice attention to detail in the thing required. Makes fine puddings and as this is needed in the kitchen, it is equivalent to saying that only a good cook can make correct puddings.

However, this does not follow, for any one who reads these suggestions should be able to produce a delightful dessert whether or not they have ever cooked anything before or after.

Puddings may be baked, boiled or steamed. Boiling requires nearly twice as much sugar as baking and steaming even longer, but the last is the best.

Put in a covered pan a quart of water and a cloth is well dredged with flour and dusted with sugar. Boil for five minutes and covered closely.

If it is cooked, care must be taken in turning it out so it shall not be ragged or broken.

Puddings that are to be boiled should be put in flour-dusted cloth and plunged into boiling water and this must not be allowed to boil over.

On removing a boiled pudding plunge it quickly into cold water and it will not stick to the pudding bag. Boiled puddings should be laid loosely in their bags to allow for swelling, but better puddings cannot be tied too tightly.

Pudding bags are never washed with warm water and dried in sunlight. When needed they should be well rinsed and then rubbed with flour.

Currents are cleaned by sprinkling them with flour and rubbing them between the fingers until they are clean. Boiled puddings should be put in flour-dusted cloth and plunged into boiling water and this must not be allowed to boil over.

The World's Strides

WHERE DID COLUMBUS LAND?

When Columbus first sighted land on the 12th of October, 1492, he had reached, not the mainland of the United States, but one of the islands of the West Indies, and it is equally surprising to have been what was now known as San Salvador.

It has never been definitely settled, however, as to just what bit of land Columbus set his foot upon, and it is not likely that the question will ever be cleared beyond a doubt.

Unquestionably the land discovered was one of the islands of the Bahama group, but as to which one there is a difference of opinion. Humboldt was of the opinion that it was Cat Island, named by the natives Guanahani and by the Spaniards San Salvador.

Some writers have claimed that it was on that beautiful spot where Columbus certainly landed on Oct. 12, 1492, but as to which one there is a difference of opinion. Humboldt was of the opinion that it was Cat Island, named by the natives Guanahani and by the Spaniards San Salvador.

Other investigators claim that Columbus landed on the island of San Salvador, but as to which one there is a difference of opinion. Humboldt was of the opinion that it was Cat Island, named by the natives Guanahani and by the Spaniards San Salvador.

FOOTBALL

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Strunk"

(Copyright, 1912, for The Strunk.)

Football, which becomes epidemic in September of each year, is a perpetual contest between the rules committee and the corner, who in former at present several laps in the lead.

Football is a concerted endeavor on the part of eleven young men to tug and pull through eleven other stubborn and strong-minded youths, with the object of getting the ball to a goal line and far away. The ball could be sent by parcel post, or by airplane in much less time and at less expense, but this would not be sport.

Sport consists of doing any thing in the most difficult manner possible, which is why football players play their game with the aid of a caddy instead of a messenger boy.

When eleven young men try to go through a place occupied by eleven other husky young men something has to give. The game is a struggle of wills, which necessitates the delaying of the game after each play in order to place the players together, the census authorities interfered and this rule committee came to the rescue.

Football in its new deatened form is played by a referee and umpire, with the assistance of the revised rules, neatly bound in eleven volumes or 11 per volume or 11 per full leather. The new game is as interesting as patchwork. The player takes the ball and runs it to a goal line and far away. The officials then bring it back ten yards, and the game is on again.

The officials take it back 40 yards and give it to the opposition. The opposition then trips on its own feet, falls down in a heap, loses the ball, busts a gutter and is awarded ten yards. The game is on again.

This so heartens the other side that it takes the ball and runs it to a goal line and far away. The officials then bring it back ten yards, and the game is on again.

SHOT FROM BEHIND, SAYS SMITH, DYING

He Accuses Ed Halliday of Firing Bullet Into Back From Which He Will Probably Die.

Cadele, Ga., November 11.—(Special.)—Though said by his physician to be mortally wounded with a chance of living only a few hours, Quinn Smith, who was wounded in the terrible tragedy at Haines yesterday afternoon in which his brother, Haines Smith, R. L. Halliday and Troy King were instantly killed, is still living this afternoon. Smith this morning accused Ed Halliday, son of R. E. Halliday, who was present, when the shooting was in progress, of having fired the bullet into his back which will probably cost him his life.

Though it was reported from Haines last night that the Smith boys had acted as peacekeepers and were shot down in their attempt to quell the difficulty, the report was denied this morning. It develops as probable that Harvey Smith had conspired with King to kill Halliday, against whom he held a grudge of long standing, and that they had gone to the depot where the tragedy occurred, for the purpose of dealing violently with Halliday. It is not uncertain that Quinn Smith did not also know the intention of the other two men and had gone with them expecting trouble. However, before the shooting commenced, he requested the men to leave their guns in the pockets, or somebody would get killed.

Halliday Attacked by King.
That Halliday was attacked by Troy King when he stepped from the train at Haines after a visit to Cadele on business and that King beat him to his knees with a heavy stick, is the statement of an eye witness of the tragedy, who was a passenger on the train and who sat in the seat just back of Halliday.

According to this witness, when the train stopped someone under the window where Halliday was seated said in a loud tone of voice: "Come on out here, we have what's coming to you." After being knocked to the ground by King, Halliday was taken to the depot in the attempt to prevent bloodshed. Halliday opened fire, but the bullets hitting the Smiths wounds upon standing.

Quinn Smith and King returned the shots and then shooting was prominent. Halliday also revolved his revolver and while firing, fired the bullet which killed his opportunity.

Quinn Smith is then said to have fallen to the ground and taken his pistol, fired the remaining bullets into the dead body of Halliday.

Ed Halliday Not Arrived.
Ed Halliday has not been arrested, but is in the hands of the law. An eye witness stated that they did not see Herbert Williams, son of Hon. Isaiah Williams, former state senator, standing near the shooting, as mentioned. Williams, it is said, remained in the back of the train, but did not take part in the shooting, two bullets passing through his overcoat close to his heart.

The other three men ran for cover as rapidly as possible.

The coroner's jury is now investigating the tragedy, having been impaneled this morning and will not complete its work before tomorrow. Re-

S. S. ARMY PLANS ADULT CAMPAIGN

Ansley Hotel Is Scene of Enthusiastic Banquet and Conference of the Leaders.

With the avowed intention of enrolling in the ranks of the Sunday school every grown man and woman in Atlanta who is able to read, a band of 150 Sunday school superintendents and associate workers pledged themselves last night to give Atlanta within the next two months the biggest adult Sunday school campaign she has ever experienced.

Meeting at the banquet hall on the top floor of the Ansley hotel, the departmental and assistant superintendents of the various schools were the special guests of the conference.

Buttons as Campaign Symbols.
It was the "adult campaign" planned for the two months which held the center of interest for the larger part of the conference. Starting immediately with the banquet of Tuesday night, the Sunday school workers will go out upon the highways and in the byways of the city, bidding all to come in, waging the campaign vigorously until January 1, 1914.

Mass Meeting of Men Planned.
The campaign among the men of Atlanta will come to a climax in a big mass meeting to be held some time in December. A special committee was appointed to arrange the details of the meeting, composed of the following: W. T. Colquhoun, chairman; W. E. Newell, J. P. G. Walker, Roy and Dr. J. H. Broughton.

Another feature will be the holding of a training institute for Sunday school workers on December 8 and 9. The assembly voted to extend an invitation to W. B. Brainerd, president of the International Sunday school association, to address the Atlanta conference.

The arrangements for the institute were placed in charge of the committee composed of J. T. Floyd, J. J. Grier, Martin, C. W. LeMay and M. M. Gaines.

ports of the manner in which the three men arrived at the scene of the tragedy is difficult to arrive at the true facts. The remains of the three dead men were interred at Ebenezer near Haines, this afternoon.

DIXIE DAUGHTERS IN 20TH CONVENTION

Mrs. Alexander White, the President General, Delivers Opening Address at New Orleans.

New Orleans, November 11.—A recounting of achievements of the United Daughters of the Confederacy by President General Mrs. Alexander White featured the first business session of the twentieth annual convention of the organization here tonight.

The Shiloh Monument.
Of the preliminary work on committee that of the one considering plans for the monument on the Shiloh battlefield, which Mrs. White has been collecting attracted most attention. Among the many suggestions for raising funds to provide a home for needy Confederate women, the Shiloh monument committee has had several meetings, and will meet again tomorrow.

Only two candidates are in the field for election as president general. They are Mrs. Nathan I. Pitts of Virginia and Mrs. Daisy McLaughlin Steveson, daughter of the late Senator Charles Steveson of Massachusetts. While interest in the election is more or less keen, there has been little evidence so far of a spirited contest.

Mrs. White's Address.
"Loyalty to the truth of Confederate history" was declared the chief aim and motive of the United Daughters of the Confederacy by Mrs. Alexander I. White, president general, in her address.

She called attention to the fact that although the U. D. C. is comparatively young, it has a long history. It was formed in Nashville, Tenn., in the fall of 1884. It already has a membership of more than 30,000, with active and growing chapters in 22 of 44 states of the union. She said that every member is of strictly southern lineage and the organization essentially for the benefit of the South.

In outlining the results accomplished by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. White said: "We have veterans by showing our pride in the South by honoring them and by helping them in their struggles. We have added them in tenderness and old age, building pensions for them and for Confederate widows or by inducing various states to erect monuments to the South."

The speaker said that she believed that every southern state now has its home for Confederate veterans, and that many also have homes for Confederate women, in all of which the United Daughters of the Confederacy furnish much luxury for the sick as well as providing for physicians and nurses.

Honor for Confederate Heroes.
"One of our chief objects," she continued, "is to show honor and reverence to Confederate heroes, living and dead. Nearly 10,000 crosses of honor have been erected. We faithfully have we commemorated the deeds and lives of our Confederate heroes by monuments, tablets and memorials that we have built the monuments of this era."

In this connection Mrs. White spoke of the monument erected to Jefferson Davis at Richmond, Va., in 1897, and characterized this memorial, which cost $71,000, as "the organization's most ambitious undertaking. Confessing she said:

"The laying of the cornerstone of the Arlington monument at Washington was a most brilliant occasion and we are eagerly looking forward to the unveiling of this great monument that will breathe the life of the South, in the shadow of that home which stands for nobleness, honor and duty."

Regarding the desire to perpetuate the history of the Confederacy in youth and purity, she said:

"Sincerely we await the great historian, who shall write truthfully and understandingly of the South and for his coming we cherish every paper, pen and letter that may help to tell the story. So it will be ready to his hand in our Confederate museum at Richmond, the treasure house of those who built the Confederacy's glory out of countless dreams."

SHE KILLED HER LOVER FOR WHIPPING HER

Houston, Texas, November 11.—Mrs. Mae Bell Cox, a widow aged 32, surrendered to the police here today, saying she had killed W. H. Morrow, a contractor, after he had beaten her. Officers went to her home and found the man dead with three bullet wounds in his chest. Morrow had been divorced from his wife, Mrs. Cox, in 1908. She was engaged to marry Morrow. There were no eyewitnesses to the killing.

Regarding the desire to perpetuate the history of the Confederacy in youth and purity, she said:

Autumn foliage in all its brilliance of color was used in effective decoration throughout the reception floor, and palms and ferns added their festive air, and a bank of them formed a background for the receiving party in the drawing room.

The pretty debutante beauty, one of the most charming members of the broun set, wore a blue chrysanthemum corsage of lace and chiffon having long sleeves of mauve, brown and white chrysanthemum and lace, with a touch of coral. Miss Greene wore black crepe and lace. Miss Sarah Thomas of New York wore a crepe de chine, with tunic of chiffon and a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom.

HOMEPATHS POSTPONE BUSINESS MEETINGS

Change in Program Made on Account of Late Arrival of Many Delegates.

On account of the late arrival of many delegates to the thirteenth annual session of the Southern Homeopathic association, the business meeting of the organization, scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed until today. Despite the small number of delegates in the city last night, the formal reception of the organization was held in the parlors of the Hotel Ansony.

Wilmer Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, formally welcomed the convention to the city, and a response was made by Dr. A. Leitch Moore, of Miami, Fla. Following the

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look, Mother! If Tongue Is Coated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "Fruit Syrup," and nothing else soothes the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste. They are cross, feverish, sleep is lost, and their little bodies become cross, half-cooked, feverish, do not sleep, do not eat naturally, breath is bad, system full of crud, and sore throat, stomach ache or diarrhea, follow. Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, mucus, bile and indigestible food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless, children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels. Ask your druggist for a 5-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for the use of children of all ages and for constipation, flatulence, indigestion, biliousness, and all ailments of the bowels. It is a safe, reliable, and effective remedy for the treatment of all ailments of the bowels. The Syrup Company, New York, N. Y.

NOT ENOUGH BOYS TO SUPPLY DEMAND

Ladies Write Mr. Cooper Regarding They Were Unable to Entertain Last Year.

Among the letters which Secretary Walter G. Cooper of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has received from prominent Atlanta women who were unable to entertain last year, is the following: "Last year I offered to entertain two of the Corn club boys, but much to my regret they did not show up. Mr. Spaulding and I expected very much of them and hope to have them with us this year."

Mrs. Anderson Wrote Boys. Mrs. Anderson wrote boys very much the same experience. Like a number of other ladies, she was unable to entertain some of the boys, but it seems that they were all able to do so this year. This year, however, with only 1,000 prospects, it seems that the supply of Corn club boys is not so plentiful as it was last year.

There is every indication from the letters which are reaching the chamber of commerce that there will be plenty of boys all over the state again this year. K. M. O'Connell, district agent for the Corn club, who came through this year, is a good example. In the state and all of these boys are entitled to the trip to Europe. How many of them will come is not known, but it is safe to say that the Corn club boys are well represented.

"The Corn club boys," writes Mr. O'Connell, "look upon this show as the biggest Christmas they have ever had."

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT FEATURE OF BIRD SHOW

A special children's department with separate judges, separate prizes and separate entrance will be one of the most interesting features of the Southern International Poultry show to be held in Atlanta December 1 to 6, inclusive.

This department was originally instituted by that beloved patron of the poultry industry, Uncle John, who died last year, and whose influence is still felt in all that pertains to the era poultry show.

The judge in the children's department will be Mr. Bertling, of Chamblee, Ga. and Mr. C. W. Smith, of Atlanta, Ga. The entries will close by midnight of the day before the opening of the children's department will be 50 cents a bird and 12 for a pen of five. Cash and ribbon premiums will be given to the winners.

For the balance of this week there will be no further cold weather, so Atlanta has been informed, and rain is in sight for this vicinity.

The entire youth suffered from the cold spell of the past three days. Much damage resulted to telephone and telegraph service in several states, while in certain communities slight crop damage was reported.

The people most hit by the extraordinary cold weather were the fair associations. Hereafter, this state without fear of being frozen out, but during the past several days it is said that the fair all but closed down on account of the inclement weather.

COL. DALEY TO LEAVE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Colonel Walter R. Daley, president of the school board, will retire at the expiration of his term, and according to political gossip, R. J. Quinn, of the third ward, is expected to succeed him. The board of education met yesterday, and it was reported that the name of Mr. Quinn and expressed the belief that he will be elected. Alderman John S. Candler and Councilman Warren D. White, the other members of the board, are said to favor Mr. Quinn's appointment.

Asked about his contemplated retirement, Colonel Daley said that he had no intention to leave the board because the meetings take too much of his time. His term will expire on the first Monday in January, 1914.

Colonel Daley has served five years on the board, two of which was as chairman. During his term of service he proved himself to be a most capable and efficient member. He gave much time and thought to school matters, and his knowledge and advice was valuable.

He succeeded Eugene Mitchell to the presidency of the board two years ago.

GLEE CLUB SINGS HERE 3360TH PERFORMANCE

President S. Russell Bridges, of the Alhambra, has received a telegram from the Chicago Glee club announcing that when that organization appears here Friday evening at the Tabernacle auditorium it will be their three thousand six hundred and sixtieth public performance. This is probably the most famous male quartet in America, and is being brought to Atlanta in accordance with the plan of Mr. Bridges to give Atlanta this year an opportunity to hear the best singing quartet and the best instrumental quartet obtainable in the country. The instrumental quartet is the famous Kneller quartet, which will be here next week.

FERTILIZER MIXERS SEEK RATE REDUCTION

Manufacturers and Railroads Make Vigorous Protest Against Change.

The railroad commission was engaged throughout the day yesterday in hearing the petition of the fertilizer mixers for a 5 per cent reduction in the freight rates on acid phosphate and sulfur, which constitute about 90 per cent of the ingredients of commercial fertilizers. At present these ingredients bear the same tariff as the fertilizer when mixed.

It has been the policy of the railroad commission to put all of the ingredients of commercial fertilizer on a freight basis when carried separately, which would allow them to move on a fertilizer rate. This is irrespective of the values of the different ingredients moved, which vary greatly.

The proposed change is being strenuously resisted, both by the fertilizer manufacturers and the railroads. The former say that it would greatly damage their business, as it would give fertilizer in the interior equal advantage with acid phosphate and sulfur at the ports. The latter assert that it would be ruinous to the profits of the carrier.

Representatives of the Central railroad urged to the commission that the proposed change would cost the system alone $50,000 to $75,000 per year.

In fact, the railroads claim that the entire question has been raised because of certain differentials in favor of Fitzgerald, Pelham, Camilla, Arlington and Blakely mixers, which, they say, inadvertently got into the profit books. They are asking that these preferential be taken out and that otherwise the rates may be allowed to remain unchanged.

Y. V. Hollingsworth and Will Davis of Waynesboro, represented the mixers at the hearing Tuesday. W. W. Osborne appeared for the Savannah manufacturers. John D. Little and B. Wright, of Atlanta, represented the Central railroad. McDaniel and Black appeared for the Southern. In addition to these attorneys, all the leading

"THE CAR WITH A CONSCIENCE"

The Continuation of a Great Success

The automobile surprise of 1913, becomes a certainty for the season of 1914.

The Oakland has been the phenomenal success of the past season.

Never before has a car received such untold praise.

Never before has a car been so generously admired.

Never before has a line been so easily sold. It has been the talk of the automobile world.

The history of the Oakland Motor Company has been a steady climb upward.

Starting in a small way in 1908, the business has increased steadily year after year until, for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1913, the gross receipts amounted to over ten millions of dollars.

We have been able to make this progress because we have built honest, serviceable automobiles. A company cannot thrive unless it does. In this commercial age, dealing as we do, with a keen public, it is absolutely necessary to make every purchaser an "asset"—a satisfied customer who is willing to recommend his choice to friends.

Good-will is a priceless thing to have. The Oakland has it.

Don't fail to carefully inspect our exhibit at the Auto Show—you will see the prettiest and best cars in the entire Show.

A few years ago if a motor car got where it started for it caused remark. Nobody expected it to get there. Today the motor car that doesn't get where it starts for is the car that causes the remark. Everybody expects it to get there. And when you come down to brass tacks, getting there is the fundamental joy of motoring. It's the concern that builds a car that can't, that's the concern that's going out of business. Did you ever stop to think how seldom it is that you ever see a Buick hung up on the road? That's Buick reliability. If you have driven over really bad roads and haven't seen a Buick plowing right through it where another car is helplessly wallowed, you're the exception. A Buick has pulled more cars out of a hole than any other car on the market. That's Buick power. If you are driving anything but a Buick, ask any Buick owner how far he goes on a gallon of gasoline. He'll have you beaten. That's Buick economy.
